in 1927 tired of the literary life of new york city new orleans and chicago a famous but aging american writer named sherwood anderson 1876 1941 author of winesburg ohio 1919 and other short stories in which he virtually invented the modern american short story moved to rural southwest virginia to write for and edit two small town weekly newspaper that he owned the marion democrat and the smyth county news living again among the small town figures with whom he was usually most content william faulkner thomas wolf and indeed an entire generation of the greatest american writers worked for several years at making his newspaper nationally famous while struggling to come to terms with a life threatening psychological depression and a failing third marriage both of anderson's midlife problems were complicated when he met eleanor copenhagen lovely young daughter in one of the prominent first families of marion and a career social worker for the ywca trying to keep their ardent affair secret in the small town anderson avidly courted the socially prominent and much younger miss copenhagen while at the same time trying to free himself from his embittered third wife and overcome the disadvantages of his age and his lover's family's distrust of him having by the end of 1931 continued for three years his surreptitious and consuming affair with miss copenhagen anderson determined on the first day of 1932 that the new year should be the year of decisions for him to gain his love in marriage or perhaps to end his life and he began the new year with a creative venture unique in literature starting on january 1 anderson secretly wrote and hid away for eleanor copenhagen to find after his eventual death one letter each day letters that she should someday discover whether they had ever become married or not and thereby relive in her memory their days of intense lovemaking a mutual despair about their then unlikely marriage found by eleanor copenhagen anderson only at sherwood anderson's death in 1941 and then preserved intact by this grieving widow who had married anderson in 1933 the carefully hidden letters of 1932 recording their intense and seemingly doomed love affair have remained secret until now chosen by eleanor copenhagen anderson before her death in 1985 to publish her husband's secret love letters anderson scholar ray lewis white has prepared a fascinating edition of these unique letters for the enjoyment of students and scholars of literature as well as for all other readers who savor compelling and inspiring stories of loss and love letters to eleanor voices of the great depression examines how the flood of letters from ordinary americans to the first lady established a bond of hope and trust through this paper trail eleanor roosevelt was able to help many petitioners find jobs food housing and clothes to others she offered the encouragement and support many needed in the bleak thirties through it all eleanor roosevelt exhibited a traditionalist social outlook by her support of homemakers and opposition to the equal rights amendment but as the new deal matured she became an ardent reformer who fought for an anti lynching law and job opportunity for women in the federal service but beneath her incessant activity to help others there was an inner eleanor who constantly sought emotional support from female colleagues or her distant correspondents a support she did not receive from fdr or her family joseph l baird presents a selection of 75 of the most interesting and revealing letters from volumes i ii and iii one of the most important women of the 20th century eleanor roosevelt 1884 1962 was also one of its most prolific letter writers yet never before has a selection of her letters to public figures world leaders and individuals outside her family been made available to general readers and to historians unable to visit the archives at hyde park it seems to me demonstrates roosevelt's significance as a stateswoman and professional politician particularly after her husband's death in 1945 these letters reveal a dimension of her personality often lost in collections of letters to family members and friends that of a shrewd self confident woman unafraid to speak her mind in her letters roosevelt lectured truman badgered eisenhower and critiqued kennedy she disagreed with the catholic church over aid to parochial schools made recommendations for political appointments expressed her opinion on the conviction of alger hiss some letters demonstrate her commitment to civil rights many her understanding of cold war politics and still others her support of labor unions as a whole this collection provides unique insights into both eleanor roosevelt s public life as well as american culture and politics during the decades following world war ii the letter written on white house stationery and dated march 26 1945 was written to the students at woman s college in appreciation of flowers they had presented to her

this book reveals the importance of personal letters in the history of european women between the year 1000 and the advent of the telephone it explores the changing ways that women used correspondence for self expression and political mobilization over this period enabling them to navigate the myriad gendered restrictions that limited women s engagement in the world whether written from the medieval cloister or the renaissance court or the artisan s workshop or the drawing room letters crossed geographical and social distance and were mobile in ways that women themselves could not always be women wrote to govern to argue to plead and to demand they also wrote to express love and intimacy and in so doing to explain and to understand themselves this book argues that the personal letter was a crucial place for european women s self fashioning and that exploring the history of their letters offers a profound insight into their subjectivity and agency over time this is a form letter asking for support for the united nations and its policies specifically for proposed american aid to greece and turkey written on american association for the united nations stationery
